Marvin has been engaged in the general practice of law since his graduation from Georgetown University Law Center in 1976 and has had an office in Harrisburg since 1980. His representation of dairy farmers, dairy farmer cooperatives, and other firms in the dairy industry has taken him across the United States into more than 20 federal district courts and into six federal circuit courts of appeals. In 2015, Marvin led the legal initiative on behalf of California dairy cooperatives and their member dairy farmers which, after a 40 day hearing, successfully brought federal milk marketing regulation to California, preempting the state system which had disadvantaged the California dairy farmers. Marvin is recognized nationally as an authority on federal milk marketing regulations under the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act. He has represented national, regional, and local dairy farmer cooperatives with members in the 48 contiguous states. Among his current clients, Marvin presently serves as counsel to the Pennsylvania Association of Dairy Cooperatives and several regional cooperative marketing agencies in common.

Marvin's practice also involves: counseling and representing clients in estate planning and administration; real estate transactions, zoning and land use, nonprofit organizations, and other civil matters. He is the Solicitor for the Fairview Township and Monaghan Township Zoning Hearing Boards.

Marvin is a member of the Dauphin County and Pennsylvania Bar Associations and the American Agricultural Law Association.
